

Table of Contents

1	Chapter One: Introduction	1
1.1	Background	1
1.2	Problem Statement	2
1.3	Questions.....	5
1.4	Hypothesis.....	5
1.5	The Main Goal and Objectives	6
1.6	Methodology	6
1.6.1	Data Collection Methodology	8
1.7	Thesis Structure	10
1.8	Limitations	11
2	Chapter Two : Current Situation of the Palestinian Context.....	12
2.1	Introduction.....	12
2.2	Current Context of the Palestinian Territories	12
2.2.1	Background.....	12
2.2.2	Physical Pattern.....	12
2.2.3	Administrative Structure	13
2.2.4	Socio-Economic Situation.....	16
2.2.5	Geo-Political Situation.....	18
2.3	Urban Planning Experience in the West Bank.....	19
3	Chapter Three :Theoretical Analysis : Polycentricity as a New Concept for Spatial Configuration..	27
3.1	Introduction.....	27
3.2	General View	27
3.3	Origins of the Polycentricity	28
3.4	Definition	31
3.5	Levels of Polycentricity.....	33
3.6	Main Concepts of Polycentricity	35
3.7	Defining and Measuring Polycentric Regions	38
3.7.1	Morphological Dimension	39
3.7.2	Functional Dimension.....	43
3.8	Adopting Morphological and Functional Criteria Lists	47

3.8.1	Adopting Morphological criteria List	48
3.8.2	Adopting Functional Criteria List	50
3.9	Conclusion	53
4	Chapter Four : Framework for applying polycentricity in the Palestinian context	54
4.1	Introduction	54
4.2	Concept, Components, and Levels	55
4.2.1	Concept No. 1 : Functional Urban Areas (FUAs)	55
4.2.2	Concept No. 2 : Potential Urban Strategic Horizon (PUSHs).....	58
4.2.3	Concept No. 3 : Potential Polycentric Integrated Areas (PIAs)	63
4.3	Conclusion	66
5	Chapter Five: Implementation of the Polycentricity Model at the Sub-Regional/Local Level.....	68
5.1	Introduction.....	68
5.2	Case Study Area.....	68
5.2.1	Physical Characteristics	69
5.2.2	Economic/Functional Situation in Ramallah Governorate.....	81
5.3	Implementation of the Polycentricity Model	83
5.3.1	Morphological Dimension Implementation	83
5.3.2	Applying Functional Dimension	124
6	Chapter Six : Conclusion and Recommendations.....	162
6.1	Introduction.....	162
6.2	Research Reflections.....	162
6.3	Application of Polycentric Model to Other Governorates	165
6.4	Key Recommendations	165
6.4.1	Generic - National Level.....	165
6.4.2	Sub-Regional/Local Scale.....	166
