

Chap. IV

This Chap. deals in detail the dynamic point of view, it contains in summary a therapeutic experiment in the field of addition.

Chap. V

This Chapter contains in details the steps taken in the emperical stdy. The sample and the tools used, the clinical interview and the T.A.T.

Chap. VI

This chapter contains the emperical study a group of ten females and 22 males were stdueis, by the interview and the T.A.T. The unconscious dynamics are exposed Psychoanalytic concepts were applied in interpreting the thematic stories.

Chap. VII

This last chapter deals in a most general and abstract way with the results of the study a general comparison between males and females was carried. Other factors, social, economics, and cultural also national, I mean Israeli Occupation was discussed as to its contribution to this phenomena.

Chap. I

It deals with the theoritical framework of the study. Drug consumption in different parts of the world, including Arab countries and Israel and Gaza strip.

Basic concepts are introduced and defined difference between consumption and addition is discussed.

Chap. II

Arab basic studies in drug addiction and consumption are summarized. Also non Arab studies are discussed, basically American and Israeli.

Chap. III

This chapter deals with the problem of addiction and its relation with the problem of Psychopathology. The Psychoanalytic approach was exposed in detail, the relation between addition and depression and mania was exposed.

In general this is the first study of the problem addition and drug consumption between palistinion youth, in a comprehensive global way according to dynamic Psychoanalytic approach.

§§§§§