INTRODUCTION	1
CHAPTER ONE: LITERATURE REVIEW	9
1.1 Definition	9
1.2 Factors associated with anaemia	9
1.2.1 Age	10
1.2.2 Sex	11
1.2.3 Dietary patterns	12
1.2.4 Young age at marriage and at first conception	13
1.2.5 Pregnancy	14
1.2.6 Gravidity and the number of living children a woman has	16
1.2.7 Lactation	17
1.2.8 Years of education	17
1.2.9 Positive history of abortion	17
1.2.10 Use of contraceptives	18
1.2.11 Socio-economic status	19
1.2.12 Obesity	20
1.2.13 Cholesterol and Triglycerides	20
1.3 Clinical manifestations	20
1.4 Diagnosis	22
1.4.1 Signs and symptoms of anaemia	22
1.4.2 Laboratory indices	22

1.5 Treatment	22
1.6 Prevalence of anaemia in some countries of the world	23
1.7 Summary	29
CHAPTER TWO: BACKGROUND	31
2.1 Demographic characteristics of the Palestinian population	31
2.2 Health indicators	32
2.3 The setting	32
2.3.1 Geography	32
2.3.2 Demographic characteristics	33
2.3.3 Health and nutrition	33
CHAPTER THREE: METHODOLOGY	35
3.1 The study population and sample	35
3.2 The study design	36
3.3 Conceptual and operational definitions of the concepts	36
3.4 Data analysis	40
CHAPTER FOUR: RESULTS	44
4.1 General characteristics of the study population	44
4.1.1 Selected demographic characteristics	44
4.1.2 Health indicators of the study sample	48
4.2 Prevalence of anaemia	48
4.2.1 Sex-specific prevalence	48
4.2.2 Age standardization	49
4.3 Percentage of iron deficiency among anaemia females	50
4.4 Underlying risk factors for the development of anaemia	50
4.4.1 Main occupation of females	50
4.4.2 Age	51

4.4.3 Multigravidity	52
4.4.4 Number of living children a woman has	53
4.4.5 Marital Status	54
4.4.6 Pregnancy	55
4.4.7 level of education	56
4.4.8 Lactation	56
4.4.9 Age at marriage	57
4.4.10 Age at first conception	58
4.4.11 History of abortion	58
4.4.12 Obesity	59
4.4.13 Cholesterol and triglycerides	60
4.5 Logistic Regression Results	63
CHAPTER FIVE: DISCUSSION	68
5.1 The prevalence of anaemia	68
5.2 Factors associated with anaemia	72
5.2.1 The most significant risk factors explaining variation in anaemia distribution	73
5.2.2 The most significant 'protective factors' explaining variation in anaemia distribution	81
5.2.3 Factors that are less significant in explaining variation in anaemia distribution	82
5.3 Priority listing of risk groups	87
5.4 Methodological Considerations	90
5.5 Control and prevention	91
